

Technical info

Backline, instruments and general info

The band provides drum kit and amplifiers (only heads, no cabinets) if not provided by the event organizer. The band members have their own accessories, for example mixer, in-ear monitor and wireless kit. The event organizer have to provide everything that it isn't specified foregoing (i.e. cabinets, microphones, mic stands, cables, stage monitors, etc.) and particularly:

- Sound and lights systems suitable for the venue of the show.
- Sound engineer, present during the sound check and during the live show.
- Dinner for 4 people and water bottles, positioned on the stage, to be consumed by the band members during the live show.
- A private room that the band can use as dressing room, possibly near the stage. In case of an outdoor event the band needs a gazebo (or similar) for the same reason.
- 2 rooms in a bed & breakfast hotel if the show takes place further away 200km from Milan (Italy).
- During the show the band members move all the time. For this reason, cables and other stuff must be protected or removed from the stage.
- In case of an outdoor show, the event organizer must ensure the instruments coverage in case it rains.

Various

The drummer (right-handed) uses his own mixer at which he connects his earphones to be able to listen to the click (managed by himself) and the stage monitor (that is controlled by the main mixer).

The guitarist uses his own in-ear monitor wireless system to be able to listen to his stage monitor.

No particular setting for singer and bassist, as they use the stage monitors provided by the organizer.
